A Retail Banking

Wealth Management

DOMAIN MAPPING

- Retail Banking
- Wealth Management
- Financial Planning
- Customer Relationship Management

PROJECT OBJECTIVE

- To understand the difference between financial activity and financial planning
- To analyze the role of banks in improving customer financial wellbeing
- To identify how wealth management adds value beyond
  traditional banking

BACKGROUND OF THE CASE

STUDY

Mr. Ravi, a salaried individual, regularly saves, invests, and borrows responsibly. Despite this disciplined financial behavior, he feels financially insecure. This case highlights the gap between using financial products and having a structured financial plan.

STAKEHOLDERS INVOLVED

- Mr. Ravi (Customer)
- Retail Bank
- Relationship Manager
- Wealth Advisor
- Financial Institutions

CONTEXT OF THE PROBLEM

Although Mr. Ravi uses multiple banking products, he lacks:

- Financial clarity
- Goal-based planning
- Risk assessment

DESCRIPTION OF THE

SITUATION

Mr. Ravi:

Maintains savings and fixed deposits

Uses loans responsibly Has insurance and investments However:

Savings are irregular

Investments are based on peer advice

No clearly defined financial goals

CORE PROBLEM IDENTIFIED

Lack of structured financial planning despite active banking behaviour

KEY BANKING CONCEPTS INVOLVED

- Retail Banking
- Wealth Management
- Financial Planning
- Risk Profiling
- Asset Allocation
- Insurance Planning

REGULATORY / COMPLIANCE CONTEXT

- KYC (Know Your Customer) norms
- Suitability requirements in investment advice
- RBI guidelines for banking services
- SEBI regulations for mutual funds

SITUATION ANALYSIS

- Customer is financially active but lacks awareness
- Bank offers products without personalization
- Relationship is transactional rather than advisory

ROOT CAUSE ANALYSIS

- Lack of financial literacy
- Absence of goal-setting
- No professional financial guidance
- Product-oriented banking approach

RISK IDENTIFICATION

- Inadequate insurance coverage
- Lack of retirement planning
- Insufficient emergency fund
- Poor investment decisions

ALTERNATIVE COURSES OF ACTION

- Continue current unstructured approach
- Self-planning by the customer
- Seek professional wealth advisory support

Recommended Solution / Decision

Adopt a goal-based financial planning approach with the assistance of a wealth advisor

JUSTIFICATION OF THE

SOLUTION

- Aligns investments with life goals
- Reduces financial uncertainty
- Improves decision-making
- Ensures long-term financial security

ROLE OF THE BANK / OFFICER / ADVISOR

- Understand customer needs

- Conduct risk profiling
- Provide personalized financial advice
- Monitor and review financial plans regularly

IMPLEMENTATION PERSPECTIVE IN REAL BANKING ENVIRONMENT

- Train relationship managers in advisory skills
- Use digital tools for financial planning
- Conduct periodic customer reviews

- Integrate retail banking with wealth management services

KEY LEARNINGS FROM THE PROJECT

- Financial activity ≠ Financial planning
- Goal-setting is essential for clarity
- Advisory services create real value

- Trust is crucial in financial relationships

PRACTICAL APPLICATIONS IN THE BANKING INDUSTRY

- Shift from product-selling to advisory approach

- Improve customer engagement
- Build long-term relationships
- Offer holistic financial solutions

STUDENT REFLECTION

This case study helped me understand that earning and saving alone are not sufficient for financial security. Proper planning, goal setting, and professional guidance are essential. It also highlights the growing importance of advisory roles in modern banking.

Conclusion

Mr. Ravi's case demonstrates that financial clarity comes not from the number of financial products owned, but from proper planning and guidance. Wealth management transforms confusion into confidence through structured financial strategies
